MARS ENDING ITS FAR-FAMED VISIT

Flaming Torch of War Will Not Be
As Bright in the Heavens Again for Thirteen Years.

Tonight Mars will begin to end its far-famed visit to earth. Not that it has come in with its hat in its hand without knocking, but it has been rumored by a nearness of about 33,000,000 miles or thereabouts, and has flashed its red signal to us as a sign of good will and in obedience to the laws of nature, of gravitation or of the almighty, whichever the astronomers decide in the controlling influence. Now it will begin to recede with a promise to call again in some thirteen years. It will again appear tonight, the clouds willing, as a great flaming torch in the sky and astronomers will have a last chance to see it, considering the stronger glasses they have now, than was ever seen before of this much-debated planet.

Mars moves around the sun in an ellipse. So does the earth. Every thirteen years their orbits approach each other and then recede. This brings the two planets to within some 35,000,000 miles, the nearest we ever get to any star, save Venus, and when the ellipses carry us far apart we get twice that distance. Then Mars seems as far away and as indistinct as Antares, the great red star in the constellation of the scorpion. Venus is nearer than Mars, but between us and the sun is seen only at sunset or sunrise, as we have little chance to study it. As it has a dense atmosphere we can never see anything of the planet itself, but astronomers believe there is more chance of life such as we know upon it than there is upon Mars.

This habit of Mars of getting away and coming near makes so marked a difference in the appearance of the planet that the old-time watchers of the stars, the astronomers of Assyria and Egypt, and even of Europe before mathematics were made so intimate a part of astronomy and the orbits understood, thought it was two separate stars that appeared at different times. Another peculiar feature in connection with Mars, especially in its near appearance, is that almost every ancient people, including the Ancient Babylonians, the South Sea Island-of the world. When the skies had cleared after a storm it was announced that the millennium had been postponed for a brief period.

war, that is to say a war between Spain and the forces of the Sultan of Morocco in contra-distinction to the fighting going on today which is limited to the Moorish tribesmen inhabitants of the Riff country.

ers, the Kanakas of Hawaii and various tribes of the American Indians, as well as the peoples of ancient Europe and Asia and the Orient, looked upon the flaming red star as a sign of war, in the folk lore of these people it is the war star.

Returning from a visit to the Seattle exposition and the Ringling Brothers' circus in the west, John Ringling has sailed from New York for London, England. It is expected that the Ringlings will invade England and the continent next year with their circus. Thus Wisconsin will produce the greatest amusement enterprise that ever crossed the Atlantic ocean.
From a humble cottage in Baraboo, Wis., to a town house in London is a far cry, but John Ringling has attained to the latter within a quarter of a century. Not only that, he maintains a luxurious residence on the North Shore drive, Chicago, a garage of a half dozen big motor cars, a yacht on Lake Michigan and the finest private car carried over any railroad in America.

The Ringlings have winter quarters in England and enough railroad cars to transport their big circus, thus it will be an easy matter for them to cross the big pond and show all Europe what a Wisconsin circus is like.

CAUGHT STEALING A WATCH AT STEVENS POINT, WIS.

Prisoner Well Known Here as He Has
Been Tried on Charge of Robbery.
James Cade, who was tried in this city ten months ago on the charge of highway robbery, is again in trouble, this time at Stevens Point. He was arrested last Saturday on the charge of stealing a watch from James Murphy, but it has just been ascertained that instead of James Cade, the name he gave when arrested, his true name is Cade. His record is far from good, although he comes from a good family. His father, Thomas Cade, was formerly sheriff of Fond du Lac county and later representative in congress from the territory of Alaska, where he moved twenty years ago. It was not possible to convict Cade on the charge brought against him in this city, but there seemed to be a well-grounded belief that he was guilty.

HARVEST CARNIVAL ATTRACTS FARMERS

Three Days' Celebration Commencing Today At Seattle Fair Brings In Many Rural Visitors.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—The three days' harvest carnival at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition which opened today, attracted large crowds of farmers from all parts of the state and from several of the adjoining states and judging from the attendance today the three days devoted to the party will prove a big success. The carnival opened today with a rustic parade in which many of the participants carried the vegetables, fruits, etc., with which they competed for the prizes offered. The Agricultural building had been especially decorated for the occasion and presented an interesting and attractive picture.

a grand barbecue in the middle of the day, followed by country sports in the stadium in the afternoon. The sporting events will include such favorite games as climbing the greased pole, catching the greased pig, three-legged races, potato races, egg and spoon races, pie-eating contests, etc., and corn-shucking contests. In the evening there will be a big barn dance in the Washington State building which has been decorated for the occasion with pumpkins, corn shucks and vegetables. The women will be dressed in gingham dresses, sun bon-nets and similar garb. On Sunday a

APPLE BUTTER DAY OF GERMAN FOLKS

Schwenkfelder Sect Of Pennsylvania
Celebrate Landing Of Forefathers in America In 1734.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Pennsburg, Pa., Sept. 24.—Following their time-honored custom the German farmers of this district, belonging to the Schwenkfelder sect of Protestants, assembled in the Little Pauersville church in Pennsburg to celebrate the anniversary of the landing of their forefathers on September 24, 1734. The Schwenkfelders were the followers of Casper Schwenkfeld, a German religious reformer of the sixteenth century, who followed him to the "New World," when the persecutions which he had to suffer on account of his religious ideas compelled him to leave his fatherland, and to seek refuge in America.

Schwenkfeld and his little band of followers landed at Philadelphia on September 24, 1734, after a long and perilous journey. Immediately after their landing they held a service of thanksgiving for their deliverance from oppression, which was followed by a frugal repast of bread, butter and applesauce. Ever since then the Schwenkfelders have observed the anniversary of their landing by holding just such thanksgiving services and again feasting on bread, butter and applesauce. They day has become commonly known among the farmers in this vicinity as "Applebutter day."

TRY MISSIONARIES FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL

Americans, Set for Today.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—The

that the trial of the American mis-

Rev. W. H. Sheppard, is to begin today. The two missionaries are accused of criminal libel. The charges were brought by one of the Congo concession companies holding a monopoly of rubber gathering in the Kasai region. It claims $20,000 damages from each of the men for "calumnious denunciations." The case originated in statements printed by the missionaries in which the rubber company was charged with perpetrating cruelties on the natives.

AN UMBRELLA BOAT

Has Rudder and Handle and is Equipped With a Sail.

The old Mother Goose rhyme about the man who went to sea in a tub has nearly come true, except in the case in point they can go to sea in an umbrella. A German has invented an umbrella which, besides being useful for ordinary rainy days, will come in handy in the event of a flood. Turned upside down the umbrella forms a boat, with seats on the ribs. At one side is a little rudder, resembling a butcher's cleaver. The center stick of the umbrella is in two parts and hinged, to form a mast, while a collapsible sail is attached to the ribs.

SEATS ON UMBRELLA RIBS.

This elliptical frame holds a piece of sailcloth to enable the intrepid mariner to take advantage of a favorable wind. Many times the hero of a comic supplement picture has put to sea in his umbrella, but it remained for the inventor of the device just described to take the suggestion seriously. The contrivance is naturally cumbersome, but that will be nothing against it in Europe, where a man thinks nothing of carrying a rain protector as thick around as a tree trunk.

Life's Ups and Downs.
"The world is full of ups and downs," quoted the Wise Guy. "That's right," agreed the Simple Mug. "We are either trying to live up to a good reputation or trying to live a bad one down."

BAPTISTS' ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING

CHURCH DAY CELEBRATION WAS HELD LAST EVENING.

NEARLY 500 WERE PRESENT

Enjoyed Fine Banquet and Excellent Program—Congregation Now Totals 675.

The annual banquet and church day celebration of this city was held last evening in the parlors of the church. Between four and five hundred people were in attendance and enjoyed the beautiful spread set before them by the ladies. An interesting program followed the banquet was a report of the annual condition of the church by W. H. Clinton, who spoke on "The Treasury." Improvements and repairs to the church building and parsonage during the year were enumerated by A. P. Hall in the report of the trustees. The building of an addition to the room used as a kitchen, the installation of a system of steam heating, remodeling of the church roof, and the laying of a new sidewalk around the edifice were mentioned. Other changes contemplated or now under way included the grading of the church lot, the placing of curbs and gutters in front of the parsonage, and the macadamizing of the street. The total cost of the improvements was $3,115.

Recommendations of the nominating committee were expressed in the report by C. H. Eller on "The Nominations." Their advice that Trustees A. P. Lovejoy and J. J. Lloyd, whose terms expired at this meeting, be elected to succeed themselves was unanimously adopted. The balance of the report was accepted as a whole and included the following appointments:

Sunday School—Superintendent, F. E. Sadler; assistants, J. C. Hanchett and Roy Carver; musical director, Ernest Clark; secretary and treasurer, A. C. Campbell; assistants, Mabel Crossman and Margaret Palmer; superintendent primary department, Mrs. L. G. Catchpole; assistants, Mrs. Eugene Wilcox and Miss Florence McDonald.

Church clerk and assistant—Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Fitchett; ushers, C. H. Eller, L. K. Crissey, C. P. Boers, E. C. Bailey, M. C. Dunham, E. W. Carver, W. H. Davis, J. T. Fitchett, Roy Eller and F. W. Isaac.

Social committee—Mrs. H. F. Dunwiddie, Mrs. Wilson Lane, Mrs. C. H. Child, Mrs. M. P. Lovatt, Mrs. W. H. Conrad, Mrs. Lillian Eddy, Mrs. Mary Crosby, Floyd Davis, Louis Gage, Mary Gage, Florence Maltby, F. E. Sadler and T. E. Warnock. The finance committee appointments were left to the trustees of the church. The baptismal committee is composed of Mrs. Mary H. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Whitton, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Walte, Mrs. G. A. Crossman.

Committee on Relief of Poor—James L. G. Catchpole, John T. Lloyd, A. A. Whitton, David Conner, George Osgood, C. F. Lester, L. L. Leslie, Nathan Dearborn, Eliza Smith, O. S. Richards, and John Collinworth.

Committee on Church Dependence—C. P. Boers, foreign missions; A. G. Anderson, home missions; Fred Scarcliff, state missions; Frank Moses, publication society; and H. A. Palmer, Christian education.

Gains in membership during the year and losses by death and removal were reported by J. T. Fitchett in his talk on "The Records."

An interpolation in the program of reports was a reading by Miss Ruth Humphrey, excellently rendered and heartily applauded by the audience.

Following Miss Humphrey's number reports of the various church societies were read. Mrs. Foster told what the Ladies' Aid society had done. Mrs. Spencer of the labors of the King's Daughters. In place of Mrs. Conger, who was unable to be present, Mrs. A. C. Campbell spoke for the Missionary Society. Mrs. Taylor gave a witty report for the Helpful Circle. F. E. Sadler, president of the Y. P. K. C. E., for that society. Miss Bertha Kimball read the nominations of the nominating committee for next year's officers.

Miss Cora Anderson sang a very pleasing solo and responded to an encore.

The attendance and the finances of the Sunday School were dealt with by A. C. Campbell, the secretary and treasurer. Class reports were given by T. E. Warnock for the Baraca class; by Llewellyn Cannon for the Cunningham class; by Paul Leslie for the Kimball class. Mrs. F. C. Burpee told what had been done by the Little Helpers' band during the past year.

The final number on the program was a selection by the orchestra, and this was followed by a social session.

Throughout the banquet an orchestra of eight or ten pieces furnished splendid music. An added charm was given to the enjoyment of the feast by the decorations of the table, on which were placed handsome bouquets of gladioli and dahlias furnished by J. T. Fitchett.

October 13 is the date of the sixty-fifth year of the organization of the church. The original congregation was composed of thirteen members. The present number is 675.

MOST OF LEAF CROP NOW IN THE SHEDS

First Rush of Buyers is Now Over and Only a Few Firms Still Remain in the Field.

(Edgerton Tobacco Reporter.)
Edgerton, Wis., Sept. 24.—The coming week will see the '09 crop practically secured in the sheds. Except with a few belated growers the principal concern is now with the curing, which has been a thoroughly ripe condition and in consequence is curing very rapidly. The weather conditions of late have been exceedingly favorable to a satisfactory curing. The early shedded portion is so nearly cured down that a very fair idea of the quality and character of the leaf may be obtained. Being a quickly growing crop there is a certainty of a remarkably thin leaf, and the color, too, promise unusually light. So much of the crop being of a large growth, the percentage of binder grades will run way beyond the normal yield of Wisconsin binders. A thin, large, surely leaf is what the market most demands of binder tobacco and it seems almost certain now that the '09 crop will meet these requirements more nearly than any crop the state has produced in some years past.

There are many evidences present that the first rush of buyers to the green fields is about over. One after another of the firms actively engaged in the movement have filled their orders and are taking their men out of the field. Aside from less than half dozen firms, including the American Cigar Co., buyers have been withdrawn and trading is being conducted with most of the growers. Outside the field the prices are quite well maintained, and good judges estimate that close to 75 per cent of the crop is under contract at this time.

Sales reaching us showing the run of prices are:

Henry Anderson, 18c at 11c; 2c. Chas. Patterson, 20c at 10c; 2c. E. M. Ladd & Co., 20c at 10c; 2c. T. G. Thompson, 44c at 10c; 10c; 2c.

G. W. Haycock, 16c at 10c; 2c. Thos. Halverson, 16c at 10c; 2c. John Midham, 10c at 10c; 2c. Larson & Moore, 16c at 10c; 2c. Torkel Forsberg, 7c at 10c; 2c. Ole K. Bakken, 8c at 10c; 2c. D. P. Doyles, 6c at 10c; 2c. N. A. Rinde, 8c at 10c; 2c. John Jensen, 8c at 10c; 2c. Peter Foss, 6c at 10c; 2c. Simon Berg, 6c at 10c; 2c. 5c at 10c; 2c.

C. Munson, 7c at 10c; 2c. T. H. Forrester, 10c at 10c; 2c. Rains have delayed the harvest of the crop would have been practically secured by the close of this week. Suitable curing weather has prevailed and much of the early cut is out of danger of shed damage.

Old goods in growers' hands continue to be taken over freely, even at advanced prices. A. S. Flug has purchased about 400 cases of '08 and A. Jensen & Sons about 150 cases of '07 and '08 the past week. The '08 picking of '07 at Janesville of 300 cases is reported sold to Elmhorst.

The shipments out of storage reach 400 cases from this market to all points for the week.

PUFFS.

Horrors! The tiny discoloration of the cloth, when probed, disclosed the carcass of a dead mouse that had crawled up under one of the plates of her best Sunday-go-to-meeting gown, and left languishing there. She had been wondering for several days why the Janesville society woman—well, not so well, for the nightgown which she claimed to visit, and a "Quality" model at that!—had been so restless.

Oh! My Back

Every Man and Woman Reading This Paper Who Suffers From Kidney Troubles is Invited To Prove the Benefits of Electropodes.

At last disease of the kidneys, of which pain in the back is such a herald, is being cured. This is not conjecture or a mere hope; it is a fact, accomplished and proven. The discovery, or rather the invention, is the most simple contrivance imaginable. No medicines are used, and none of those have been found to do any more than merely stimulate the true cause.

This discovery, which is working such wonders in the treatment of diseases, is called "Electropodes." It causes an electric current to penetrate the entire body, especially the vital organs and the nervous system. Electricity has been called life. Now it has been found to be even more so. It is health, strength and vigor incarnate.

Electropodes, as a result, have been proven to be a remarkable curing power over kidney troubles, backache, rheumatism, stomach and liver troubles, neuritis, nervous prostration, insomnia and weak heart.

A few days' use of Electropodes proves it. Electropodes are different from any other electric appliances, in that they make electricity active, which actually in use they are in the form of metallic needles placed inside the body of the shoes.

Electropodes are so made that they can never be uncomfortable when worn, and are invisible. They are designed to electrify the whole body, turn it into a healthy, powerful machine, and disease disappears. It will cost you nothing to prove it absolutely.

Electropodes are sold at drug stores on an installment plan, or you can buy them outright. They are sold at the end of a full 30 days you are not satisfied with the Electropodes and refund your money. We are the only place where you can get your money back if you are not satisfied.

If your druggist has no Electropodes, write to the Electro-Pod Co., Suite 10, Holland Block, Lima, Ohio, and you will get a pair together with our signed contract, which we will refund your money, whether for body or gentleman.

FREAK BOAT MADE A FINE SHOWING IN TEST THURSDAY.

New Craft Invented by Wm. Reed Developed Good Speed on River Afternoon.

The completion of the trial of the freak boat put on the river yesterday was most gratifying to the inventor, Mr. Reed, and the builder, Grayson Horn, both of whom are highly elated over the showing it made. Shortly after three o'clock the engine started working properly, which it had not done at the start of the test, and the boat fairly sped through the water. In a trial race, Turner's big launch was outdistanced by the new boat. A party also went up the river several miles on it last evening.

In its present condition the boat is incomplete. When finished it will be arranged more for the convenience of passengers, than it is at present. A decking will be built and seats will be put in. In the trial yesterday it was found that it would be necessary to raise the platform and this also will be done.

THE HERO.

Cholly—I shall marry Miss Rockingham, after all. Yesterday I saved her life. It was just exciting. I was on the beach, and she was in the water. A big wave knocked her over, and I grabbed her. She was a fine girl, and I was in luck. There was only one thing to do.

Cholly—Rushed to her rescue.

Cholly (travelling)—No, screamed (a help).

Analysis of Reason.
Reason is always a kind of brute force; those who appeal to the head rather than the heart, however mild and polite, are necessarily men of violence. We speak of "touching" a man's heart, but we can do nothing to his head but hit it.—G. K. Chesterton.

Chances for Practice.
"You found the people in Europe polite and obliging, did you not?" "Oh, yes," answered Mrs. Cumrox. "Everything possible is done for the comfort of American tourists. Even the shops print their signs in foreign languages, and you have no idea how the custom helps you in your studies."

SAVE THE FORESTS

Some startling facts concerning the destruction of American forests are brought out by the United States forest service. The statement is made that a careful inventory has shown that we are still destroying the forest as we use it; that we are taking from it every year three and a half times as much wood as is added by the new growth. It has shown that less than one-third of the growing trees felled by the lumberman is ever used at all, so that two-thirds of all the timber cut is simply destroyed.

It has shown that one-eleventh of all the forests are swept by fires every year, and that on the average since 1870 forest fires have yearly cost $20, 000,000 in timber and fifty lives. It has shown that over ninety-nine per cent of the forests in private hands—which comprise three-fourths of all the forest land and four-fifths of all the wood—is thus devastated by destructive use and the scourge of unchecked fires, while less than one per cent is properly handled for successive crops or effectively protected from fire. The forest as a resource is rapidly being obliterated.

But the inventory of the forests has had yet other ugly facts to reveal.
With the disappearance and deterioration of the mountain forests the nation is losing control of the streams, which are useful in our civilization in ways and degrees unparalleled by any other resource.

Pure water for domestic purposes is, of course, indispensable; usable water at the right season is the sole reliance of the great projects by which the arid lands are civilized by irrigation; cheap water transportation is a matter of dollars and cents to every citizen; trustworthy power streams are the key to the age of electricity, at the gates of which modern industry is standing. Yet the guardian of the waters is steadily compelled to retreat before the ax and fire.

In waste alone we reject more than two-thirds of the lumber that might be taken from the standing trees. At least half of this waste is unnecessary. In the first place, we waste the forest by refusing to take advantage of its full capacity for growth.
Protected and properly managed, our forests will produce far more good than they do at present.

But while it is wasteful to cripple the forest by a violent lumbering which destroys young growth—the promise of the future forest—it is doubly wasteful to look up the forest and let the ripe timber die and decay, for in the former case the forest at least contributes a temporary supply of wood, whereas in the latter case it contributes no wood at all.

President Taft told his audience at Colorado Springs that he was in full sympathy with Roosevelt's policies, but that it would require the work and time of several administrations to carry them out. He believed in the high standard of business morality established by his predecessor, and would attempt to strengthen it by every means in his power. The "big stick," however, was not in evidence.

Dresser, one of the defunct members of the State Board of Control, has been appointed director of census for the Eleventh district and thus another friend of representative government is taken care of. President Taft was no doubt honest when he said that the census work must be free from politics, but he was not very familiar with Wisconsin methods.

Dresser needed a job and political influence secured it.

The feeling against Aldrich is so strong in the west that it will require more than the president's endorsement to change it. Time alone will vindicate the action of the party which Senator Aldrich and the president represent and while the tariff bill adopted may not be perfect it will be found prosperity will not be retarded because of its provisions.

There is mourning in the camp of the insurgents because of loss of influence in controlling federal appointments, and various other slights incident to lack of party loyalty. The Cherokee strip has never been very promising territory. It is so near the democratic border that its occupants frequently become thirtured and demoralized.

State's Attorney Wayman has succeeded in convicting McCann, the Chicago policeman, of graft, and the campaign so vigorously waged against official corruption will be continued until the city is purged of this class of plunderers. Wayman is a fearless and tireless worker, and Chicago is to be congratulated in securing his services. The country needs more prosecutors of this kind.

The Hudson-Fulton exposition, soon to open in New York, promises to be the greatest show on earth and the city is planning to entertain its guests in royal style. It is estimated that the visitors will spend from $10, 000,000 to $20,000,000 in sight-seeing.

No new candidates for state office have appeared on the political horizon since the state fair convention.

Heart to Heart
Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

WHAT IS YOUR LIFE WORTH?

Young man, what are you worth?

If you should die, how much would the world lose by your death?

Of course if you should die the community would deplore the death of "a promising young man," "the hope of his friends," etc. I do not mean this sort of loss.

How much is your life worth in cash?

Experts have figured it all out. According to statistics, the life of a laboring man who earns an average wage of $1.50 per day at the age of thirty—that is, when a laborer is most valuable—is worth the sum of $3,217.03.

That is to say, when a laboring man dies at the age of thirty years society loses $3,217.03 of its economic capital.

The professional man or the specialist, however, is most useful at the age of forty years.

When a man who is equipped to serve the world in these lines dies at the age of forty the loss to society is greater. According to the estimate, there is an economic loss of $13,207.48.

Besides—
The value to the world of the laboring man grows less after he reaches the age of thirty years. The value of the professional man or specialist, on the other hand, remains about the same until he is fifty years of age.
After fifty his value grows less.

To illustrate—

Take the laboring man at the age of thirty-five. His value to society is small. From being worth $3,217.03 at thirty his value has decreased until he is worth only $304.67.

But the specialist is still quite valuable at sixty-five. He is worth almost half as much as he was at forty or, to give the figures, $13,207.48.

When I speak of special education I do not necessarily mean college education. The specialty may be that of a breeder or an inventor as well as that of a doctor or a lawyer.

The way to make yourself more valuable to the world, to your friends, to yourself, is to educate yourself to do something better than the average man can do it.

For the world of today is asking not so much—

What do you know?

It is asking more than all else—

What can you DO?

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

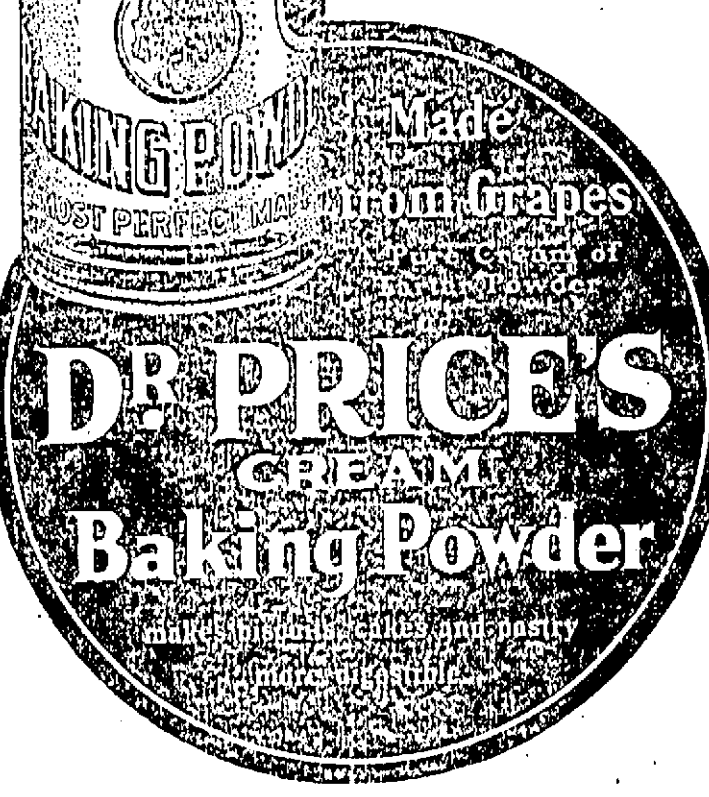

By WALT MASON

(Copyright, 1900, by George Matthew Adams.)

I do not like the man who searches his mind for caustic things to say, about the preachers and the churches; he grows more common every day.
The cynic is a scurvy fellow, whose head and creed are made of wood; he
THE SANCTUARY—puts up little gods of powder, and says that they "are just as good." He thinks that triumphs he is winning, and he omits a joyous laugh, if he can knock the underpinning from faith, that is our red and staff. He is a poor and lawdy victor, who would eat dead religious walk; the church still lives, though fools have kicked her, since first she builded on a rock. I hear the mellow church bells ringing a welcome to that calm retreat; I hear the choir's sweet voices singing an anthem, reverent and sweet. And well I know the gentle pastor is pointing out the path to wend, and urging men to let the Master be evermore their guide and friend. And he, like all good men, is reaching for better, and for higher things; and so the message of his preaching—unlike the cynic's—comfort brings.

IDEALS AND ATTAINMENT.
When I started out in life, I earnestly desired to be of use in this world. To be able in some way to add to the sum total of human happiness. I have no regrets to mention because I chose Doubtless as my field of labor.

Some things about my work are unpleasant. It is true, but there are very many pleasant things to compensate.

For instance:

There are two ways in which I can be of real help to people.

I can add to their personal attractiveness by beautifying the teeth.

I can add to every one's length of life by supplying anew nature's most valuable gifts, namely: the teeth with which to eat and maintain our existence.

I suppose some of my work in the twenty years of my practice. I would not be very proud of at this time, but I am equally certain that I have put out a great deal of work which I shall always view with pride.

A normal man profits by his fall-upon and improves next time.

And I know that right now I am doing the finest dental work of my life. And with the least pain to my patients.

Come in and let me demonstrate.

BRIDGE DEVOTEES ARE NOW HOMELESS

Proprietors of Poker Plant Are Said to Have Made Wholesale Complaints When Their Game Was Stopped.

Staid business and professional men who were wont to while away some of the long evening hours at the clear whist in a friendly game of bridge stakes, with half or quarter of a cent stakes per point, just to make the diversion interesting, have been not adrift by a recent order of the police department. Some of them are saying rather harsh things about the proprietors of a defunct poker joint on West Milwaukee street who retaliated with loud complaints against the bridge pastime when they received a preemptory order from headquarters that their own pot game must come to exist. The business men maintain that there is a vast distinction between a game in which one cannot lose or make more than a dollar or two in an evening and pure and simple gambling.

A WORD ABOUT YOUR FALL CLOTHES

KUPPENHEIMER CLOTHES do not solve the problem of perpetual youth, but they go a long way towards it so far as appearance is concerned. They inspire you with a desire to remain youthful—to make you FEEL young. They give you an air of dignity, of aristocracy, of class.

THEY DISTINGUISH YOU IMMEDIATELY FROM THE COMMON HERD

They are made of fabrics youthful in pattern especially woven for KUPPENHEIMER CLOTHES, according to special designs. Yet, not satisfied simply with masterly exterior, these clothes have special KUPPENHEIMER designs in linings to fit the youthful fancy; and to further preserve the youthful harmony, even so small a thing as buttons are of special KUPPENHEIMER mould. But above all,

AND OF GREATEST IMPORTANCE

is the cut of KUPPENHEIMER garments which gives the youthful, dashing, modern air which young men want and will have. So that today KUPPENHEIMER style is recognized as standard in young-mannish effect, and is responsible for the more extensive recognition that has lately been accorded the young man's trade. No greater tribute could be paid KUPPENHEIMER BRAND than the continual copying of their designs by other makers in subsequent seasons. To sum it all up, KUPPENHEIMER has succeeded in fitting the young men of America in mind and body. Not only because of the foregoing facts, but also because who has youthful style constantly in mind. And to those men who are a trifle older than young men, but who wish to appear young, we earnestly recommend these clothes. They are devoid of frills and foolish fancies and make one stand out dignified and yet different—dashing yet refined. Ask us to show you KUPPENHEIMER clothes, or write to us for the FASHION BOOK of 1909 10.

Each Individual Part of Every Garment Is Prepared By An Expert

Such in brief is the confirmation of Dr. Frederick Cook's story received by the Whitney family in a letter addressed to Mr. Whitney's mother from Elmhurst. It was written September 5. This confirms with even stronger evidence that Dr. Cook was at the north pole before any other man. It con-

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

IF YOU were suddenly called upon to climb upon a platform and address an audience, how many people do you think you could make hear you?

Do you think your voice would travel beyond the third or at most the fifth or sixth row?

It probably wouldn't.

Women are going more and more into public life of one kind or another. You cannot pick up your morning paper without finding the record of two or three—maybe ten or twenty—women who spoke at some dinner or entertainment or club or public meeting the night before.

Fifty years ago the name of a woman in the report of speakers at a public gathering would have been an oddity. When they did appear, women, like children, were supposed to be seen and not heard.

But nowadays no such conduct is required of her. And why, then, does she supply it?

For as far as all but the first few rows are concerned I am sorry to say that a great many women speakers are still seen and not heard.

It is almost wicked for a woman to accept an invitation to speak to any gathering whatsoever unless she is sure she can make her whole audience hear.

Do you know anything more utterly horrid than sitting through a speech of which you can only catch an occasional phrase? And to make any definite impression a speaker should not only be able to make her audience hear, but to make them hear without any effort.

The amount of attention that has to go to the mere physical effort of catching a speech is naturally lost from the amount that can be used to intellectually appreciate it.

Do not think that I am urging women to speak louder in their homes than most of them do. I agree thoroughly with the great poet who said: "Her voice was low and sweet—An excellent thing in a woman."

as far as the home is concerned.

But I think the woman who lacks the reserve ability to speak loudly should either keep strictly away from any platform or else follow a better course and that is—develop a voice.

No woman knows when she may want with all her heart to speak up for some cherished cause. And if that time ever comes it will make no difference how passionately full of her subject she may be if she has no vehicle to carry her thoughts to others.

If you learn to articulate carefully and develop the muscles of your throat properly you will not only have a reserve power to use if occasion demands, but you will also have a better speaking voice.

Any educationist or singing teacher ought to furnish you with a set of exercises for this purpose. And the other ingredient necessary for voice development—no need for any development—you can furnish yourself, and that is, of course—

Just patience.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Olmstead of Northwood, Iowa, who came here to attend the funeral of Mrs. Olmstead's brother, the late E. H. Thoon, returned home on Monday.

Mrs. J. A. Hayko left Wednesday for Jackson, Mo., where she will make her home with her daughter, Mrs. W. Tracey, for a while. Mrs. Hayko expects to be gone about a year. Mrs. Jones accompanied her and will visit there for a few days.

On last Saturday afternoon about thirty of the members of the W. P. M. S. and a few other friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones, where they gave Mrs. Hayko such a very pleasant surprise that she will not soon forget. Most excellent refreshments were served and the afternoon was spent in social conversation. They also had a program which consisted of readings, songs, etc., which only the old ladies know how to give. A most excellent time is reported by all.

W. Roderick of Broadhead was in the village on Tuesday. Frank Gavey and family of Monroe spent a few days last week at W. P. Gavey's.

Frock with Soutache Trimming
The novelty in this little frock lies in the arrangement of the soutache trim used for trimming, the cut of the gown being that style of the May-on-ago with the enlaid-like body and fitted blouse. The material was ottoman cloth—one of the materials which will be popular this fall—the color a shade deeper than claret, with soutache to match. The sleeves show a very perceptible increase in fullness above the elbow. The neck is cut quite low over a yoke of all-over cream lace. The entire body of the frock is covered with soutache applied in rows, alternately waved and plain—the plain continuing for a short distance on to the pointed blouse.

TAFT INSPECTS UTAH TROOPS.

Takes Lunch with Senator Reed Smoot at Provo.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 21.—President Taft and party arrived here this afternoon, escorted by Gov. William Spry and staff and a number of Utah congressmen, who met the chief executive at Green River. Mr. Taft and all the rest stopped at Provo about noon long enough to take lunch with Senator Reed Smoot, who lives there.

On reaching Salt Lake City the presidential party was taken at once in automobiles to Fort Douglas, where Mr. Taft was given the presidential salute of 21 guns by the First battery, Utah National Guard. He then reviewed the fifteenth infantry, which is stationed at the fort. This evening he will be the guest of the officers.

To-morrow after breakfast at the Commercial club, Mr. Taft will be shown the sights of the city and taken to Salt Lake Beach. In the afternoon he will hold a public reception in Liberty park and then is to be given an hour of golf at the Country club. In the evening he will be the guest of the Alta club and the Yolo Alumni association.

The president will leave for Ogden at noon Sunday after addressing the children of the city in the Mormon Tabernacle.

Montrose, Cal., Sept. 21.—During President Taft's stay in this city he was given a real touch of western life—a relay race of cowboys. The race was arranged especially in honor of the president and was a novel and exciting affair. A girl of 16 was matched against two older riders, and carrying the sympathy of the crowd with her from the start, won the two and a half mile race with three changes of horses by almost a quarter of a mile. The little girl, Miss Bertha Hull, wore knickerbockers while the two older riders wore undivided skirts. The impediment of the latter, turned the tide of the contest and when the second change of horses, little Miss Hull was galloping along so far in front that the result was never in doubt. All three of the riders were presented to the president, who climbed into the judges' stand on the fair grounds track to witness the race.

Two Killed, Ten Wounded.
Melilla, Sept. 21.—A Spanish detachment reconnoitering in the environs of Souk Bent-Sleer, demolished a large number of houses. The Rifians opposed the Spanish advance. The Spanish had two killed and ten wounded in Wednesday's fighting. Gen. Mariani, commander of the Spanish forces, attaches great importance to the occupation of Souk-Bent-Sleer, which is the meeting point of the various sections of the tribe and the headquarters of the anti-foreign movement.

DEATH LIST REACHES 100.

RUIN AND DEATH WROUGHT BY HURRICANE WAS UNDER-ESTIMATED.

CONDITIONS ARE DEPLORABLE

Hundreds of People Are Homeless and Destitute—Damage Will Reach Many Millions—Crop Are Totally Destroyed.

New Orleans, Sept. 21.—Additional reports of death as a result of Monday's hurricane, continue to be received and the list of known dead in Terrebonne parish has been swollen to more than forty, and from present indications the total number will probably reach 100 before the final count has been made. Hundreds are homeless and conditions are most deplorable in many sections of the state.

Further details of property loss, reaching millions of dollars, come in with the gradual restoration of communication. Relief parties in Terrebonne parish are continuing their work. Five hundred sufferers from the storm are being cared for at the parish seat of Terrebonne, and in surrounding neighborhoods.

Scene of Desolation.

A few fishermen, with the almost forlorn hope that missing relatives and friends may be found or at least their dead bodies discovered, or that they may resurrect some of their lost belongings, remain upon the scene of their desolated homes.

The families of Thomas and Walter Rhodes, numbering 14 people, are now reported as being almost certainly among the dead in Terrebonne. Others who have not been located are who are believed to have perished are Dick Gray, wife and seven children; Inez Vorrat and family of four; C. Holt and wife and Norway Faray.

The carcasses of cows, horses, hogs and dogs strew the prairie for miles and thousands of dead birds and mammals are floating on the waters of the bayous.

Leaves Trail of Dead.

The bodies of three fishermen were found in the Louisiana marshes several miles southeast of New Orleans. Two children near Indian Du Tacro, La., were drowned when stricken by which the families were fleeing struck by the obstructions. Two were killed by the collapse of a house near Clinton, La. No trace of the crew of nine men on the sloop Seven Brothers, wrecked near the Bilgots, 20 miles east of New Orleans, has been discovered.

Conditions Deplorable.

The dozen or more relief expeditions, which left New Orleans at the earliest moment after the hurricane, are pushing their way along the coast and adjacent territory dealing out food, clothing, medicine and emergency supplies of all kinds to destitute and stricken people. Although the sufferings of many storm victims have been greatly relieved, as each mile of coast is traversed, more victims are found in a deplorable condition.

JAP COMMISSION IS AT GARY.

Inspects Steel Plant and Dines with Saddle and Striplin Club.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Baron Elight Shibusawa and his fellow members of the Japanese commercial commission arrived in Chicago this morning for a visit of four days as guests of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The party numbers 75 persons, including the wives and relatives of many of the members.

Today the visitors were taken first in automobile to the stock yards for a tour of inspection and luncheon at the Saddle and Striplin club. Then a special train carried them to Gary, Ind., where they were shown the wonders of the great steel works.

To-morrow morning the Japanese will be shown the Western Electric and Commonwealth Edison plants, and in the afternoon they will visit the University of Chicago, the south parks and the public playgrounds. The climax of their visit will come Monday evening when they will be tendered an elaborate banquet in Congress hotel.

Surrounded by Armed Force.

Bluefield, W. Va., Sept. 21.—A party of armed citizens have Simon Blanton and his two sons surrounded in their home awaiting the arrival of the sheriff of Buchanan county, Va. They were led to this home by bloodhounds put on the trail of the murderers of the old lady known as "Aunt Betty Justice," her son-in-law and daughter and three children, whose bodies were burned in their homes at Hurley, Va., Tuesday night.

Whisky Causes Tragedy.

Lawstown, Pa., Sept. 21.—Arthur Allen, the proprietor of the Keystone hotel at Millin Station, near here, shot and instantly killed his five-year-old daughter and then shot his wife and himself, inflicting only slight wounds. Allen had been drinking.

Fire Fatal to Fireman.

Topoka, Kan., Sept. 21.—Fire destroyed the Otto Kuhne Preserving and Pickling works, causing a loss of $125,000. Harry Jones and H. C. Gurtler, firemen, were injured by falling walls, and Jones died later. Gurtler will recover.

Dumb Was Harmless.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 21.—It develops that there was no plot connected with the finding of a supposed bomb in Juarez, Mexico.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, September 24, 1869. Narrow Escape.—While coupling cars in the yard at this depot in this city, on Wednesday last, Lew Walters had his foot caught under a car wheel and the sole torn off. The foot sustained no serious injury, though it was somewhat bruised. It was certainly a narrow escape from serious injury.

Discharged.—Inman, who was arrested for an alleged threat against life, has been discharged, the evidence not being sufficient to hold him.

Better.—We understand that the Indian boy who was the worst wounded while stealing melons of Mr. Gilliland on Tuesday night, exhibits more favorable symptoms today, and hopes are entertained of his recovery. We are certainly hoping he will get well.

Held for Bail.—Mr. Hugh Gilliland was yesterday afternoon held to bail in the sum of $1500 for shooting the boys, or rather one of them, in his melon patch. We understand he is to be arrested on the charge of shooting the other lad.

How to Have a Bright, New Kitchen

Don't let your kitchen get an unclean look because the Linoleum or oil-cloth is worn in spots, the figure lost, the coloring dull and the whole effect drab.

You can have a bright, new kitchen at a very small cost if you will only get a quart can of Linoleum Lustre, which covers 160 square feet. Apply it in the evening, or have your little boy or girl do it. It will be dry in the morning before breakfast time, the former brightness of the floor covering will be restored, and it will last indefinitely.

Linoleum Lustre will also re-rose a new linoleum for years—just the way it comes from the store.

CORDIAL WELCOME

TO REV. DENISON

FORMER JANESVILLE PASTOR

DELIVERS FIRST SERMON.

AT NEW HAVEN CHURCH

Parsonage is a Three-Story Brick

Building Overlooking the Sea—

Full Text of Initial

Address.

Friends of Rev. Robert C. Denison, formerly of this city and now pastor of the United Congregational church at New Haven, Conn., will be pleased to know that he has been every cordially received in his new parish and that both he and Mrs. Denison are beginning to feel at home in the new residence and among the parishioners.

Mrs. Denison, who has written to friends in Janesville describing Rev.

Denison's new field of work, states that, contrary to all expectations, the members of the United church are neither cold or critical, but cordial and sociable. They have already seconded their new pastor's initial efforts and it is probable that he will soon have as devoted a following in the east as he had in this city.

The United church, which overlooks the sea, is a very large and handsome structure and the pastor's residence is in keeping with the church. The parsonage is a three-story red brick building overlooking the ocean. The third floor is especially fitted with all the necessary library furnishings and is used by Rev. Denison for a study.

The parish itself is so large that it would be impossible for one man to attend to all the necessary duties.

Accordingly, in addition to Rev. Denison, there is an assistant pastor, while a young minister has been appointed to assist him. This makes it possible for Rev. Denison to devote considerable time to the preparation of his sermons. His first sermon is herewith produced in full.

"To Each One, His Work." Mark

13:30. God has given every one in this world something to do. There is some service within your reach and mine, possible to us, divinely worthy and important to God.

This statement of Jesus is all the more interesting because it is given in this parable not as a theory he means to prove, nor as a philosophy he intends to defend, but as a direct unquestioned statement of fact. This was a deep and established part of Jesus' thinking. He thought of His work as God's commission. It comes out with His conversation therefore naturally and spontaneously as the water flows out of the spring, because it is already clear and sweet in the heart of the spring.

"The facts of life support Jesus' thought.

"The sea beach may seem to be the same if one sand grain is removed; the garden the same without one rose bloom, the forest the same without one tree, and yet beach and forest and garden are made possible and beautiful only because each sand grain or rose and tree adds its little to the grass blades that make up the green of the hills. One less grass blade and the field is a little less green. One less drop of water and Naxos is a little less full.

"The scientist knows that every element in nature is important to nature; each atom and animal has played some part in evolution.

"A little thinking on this statement of Jesus shows us its depths.

"It is critical in government. The older idea was, let us set men free, let us give every man his vote.

Democracy is glorious because it en-franchises the people. But we know now that the task of democracy is more than merely to set men free and give them votes; it is to waken in men this very truth, every man has his work, his duty. No democracy is safe in which men do not feel—I have something to do. I am responsible to be and give my best for my city and my land. Jesus was not a trained psychologist and yet he knew the laws and secrets of the human mind. He knew the importance to all life of man's feeling, each man of them, I have something to do. He knew that the birthday of his usefulness, his happiness, the birthday of his soul was in that time when he awoke to say, this is my work. I am responsible here, and I must do it. Let the boy do some work. Do not push aside the little hands that want to help. These are the springing of the spirit.

"But now, of course, one main interest in this morning in these words of Jesus is their religious significance.

One of the eternal questions for ever rising out of life is this: Does God have any concern for you and me? Is

He interested in us as individuals? A man once turned to me with the dark story his father's fortune had been wasted by a dishonest partner, while that father was away fighting for his country, so the boy's occupation had been cut off. Then the father had been sold and within four months after the family had parted with it, it had been found, and the man who bought it made a fortune. Young man and man, he had worked hard,

and then his investments had failed.

Now he could not do for his children what he wanted to do, for all the generous things which his father's heart prompted him to do. Now his health was feeble, he could not start again.

Had God had any care for his life? So out of the dark experiences of life, the question rises, and the solid ground is here. Whatever doubts may come, whenever there may be uncertainty, there can be no doubt of this:

God has given you something to do.

He thinks of you enough to give you a task. There is some beautiful work, some cheering or helping of somebody else, some responsibility to meet, some noble service to faithfully render which lies before you and there in that task, that duty, that service, God meets you. At least His interest in you is there. He trusts you with a duty, a responsibility, and the happiness of life is in meeting it.

"Even Marcus Aurelius, the emperor saint of pagan Rome, knew it:

"If thou workest at that which is before thee, seriously, vigorously, calmly, keeping thy divine part pure as if thou shouldst be bound to give it back immediately, thou wilt be happy." Only the great secret, which Aurelius missed and so many nonnians, is this. They fail to think of their work as something God has given. Here is where we meet God and God meets us—not often in strange, exceptional fantasies and ecstasies and miracles, but in the work which is directly before us. Whatever your work, thinking or mending shoes, teaching school, making a home or a business, the great joy of it is in this

—that you shall think of it as God's commission, a part of the serious and eternal business of the universe. Happy is the man who can feel what every man has a right to feel with regard to all honest and useful work, what Jesus felt, and sent me. That will meanfully and gloriously the work and strength of the man to do it.

"And now we go a little deeper into our thought: we bring it a little deeper to ourselves and our day.

What does God want men to do today? Let us deal with it concretely.

What does God want of us? What can we and I give to life today which is worth while? I speak especially of religious and spiritual things. Our guide in the answering of this question must be this: What does the world need? What God wants us to do must be what the world needs.

We may read His will in the great opportunities of life.

"I think the world wants of you and me our own highest and most honest thought.

"This is an age of education. In these weeks millions of children will be crowding public school and college, but education does not always mean independent thought on the highest things; sometimes education means only learning.

"This is an age of reading. There are more public libraries in America than in any nation the sun ever shone on, but reading does not always mean thought.

"This is an age of prosperity. The autumn crops will be worth nine billion dollars. But prosperity often brings thought, and yet the hope and the seed of all progress is in fresh, fearless, independent thinking. How shall we ever get a better world, how conquer poverty and pain, ignorance and vice? How shall we get clearer and higher and truer ideas of God?

How shall we do it in the future except as it has been done in the past?

By the free and bold thinking of reverent and earnest men.

"The world wants your honest and earnest thought, to help shape its life. What do you think about duty and love, and the Bible and immortality?

CHAPTER X.

The Erlina was steaming quietly down the channel in a flat calm, at the rate of 12 knots an hour, presumably in order to save her coal, for she could run 10 when her owner liked, and he was not usually fond of going slow. Though September was at hand, and Guernsey was already on the port quarter, the sea was motionless and not so much as a cat's paw stirred the still blue water; but the steamer's own way made a pleasant draught that fanned the faces of Logothetis and Baraka as they lay in their long chairs under the double awning outside the deckhouse.

The Tartar girl wore a skirt and jacket of dark blue yachting serge, which did not fit badly considering that they had been bought ready-made by Logothetis's man. She had little white tennis shoes on her feet, which were crossed one over the other on the deck chair, but instead of wearing a hat she had bound a dove-colored motor veil on her head by a single thick gold cord, in the Asiatic way, and the thin folds hung down on each side, and lay on her shoulders, shading her face, and the breeze stirred them. Logothetis's valet had been sent out in a taximeter, provided with a few measurements and plenty of cash, and commissioned to buy everything that a girl who had nothing at all to wear, visible or invisible, could possibly need. He was also instructed to find a maid who could speak Tartar, or at least a little Turkish.

After five hours he had come back with a heavy load of boxes of all shapes and sizes and the required maid. You can find anything in a great city, if you know how to look for it, and he had discovered through an agency a girl from Trebizond who had been caught at 12 years old by the last few days. As for that, she was like a healthy young animal, and as soon as she had a chance she had fallen so sound asleep that she had not waked for 12 hours. Logothetis's intent was to take her to Paris by a roundabout way, and establish her under some proper sort of protection. Margaret was still in Germany, but would soon return to France, and he had almost made up his mind to ask her advice, not dreaming that in such a case she could really deem anything he did an unpardonable offense. He had always laughed at the conventionalities of European life, and had paid very little heed to them when they stood in his way.

He had been on deck a long time that day, but Baraka had only been established in her chair a few minutes. As yet he had hardly talked with her of anything but the necessary preparations for the journey, and she had trusted him entirely, being so worn out with fatigue and bodily discomfort that she was already half asleep when he had at last brought her aboard, late on the previous night. Before the girl had sailed he had received Van Torp's telegram informing him that Kralkinsky was at Dayruth; for his secretary had sat up till two in the morning to telegraph him the latest news and forward any message that came, and Van Torp's had been amongst the number.

"I have something of importance to tell you," Logothetis said.

Baraka prepared herself against betraying surprise by letting her lids droop a little, but that was all.

"Speak," she answered; "I desire knowledge more than gold."

"You are wise," said the Greek gravely. "No doubt you remember the rich man Van Torp, for whom I gave you a letter, and whom you had seen on the day you were arrested."

"Van Torp," Baraka pronounced the name distinctly, and nodded. "Yes, I remember him well. He knows where the man is whom I seek, and he wrote the address for me. I have it. You will take me there in your ship, and I shall find him."

"If you find him, what shall you say to him?" Logothetis asked.

"Few words. These perhaps: 'You left me to die, but I am not dead, I am here. Through me you are a rich, great man. The rubies are my marriage portion, which you have taken. Now you must be my husband. That is all. Few words.'"

"It is your right," Logothetis answered. "But he will not marry you."

"Then he shall die," replied Baraka, as quietly as if she were saying that he should go for a walk.

"If you kill him, the laws of that country may take your life," objected the Greek.

"That will be my portion," the girl answered, with profound indifference. "You only have one life," Logothetis observed. "It is yours to throw away. But the man you seek is not in that country. Van Torp has telegraphed me that he is much nearer. Nevertheless, if you mean to kill him, I will not take you to him, as I intended to do."

Baraka's face had changed, though she had been determined not to betray surprise at anything he said; she turned to him, and fixed her eyes on him, and he saw her lashes quiver.

"You will tell me where he is," she said anxiously. "If you will not take me I will go alone with Spiro. I have been in many countries with no other help. I can go there also, where he is. You will tell me."

"Not if you mean to murder him," said Logothetis, and she saw that he was in earnest.

"But if he will not be my husband, what can I do, if I do not kill him?" She asked the question in evident good faith.

"If I were you, I should make him share the rubies and the money with you, and then I would leave him to himself."

"But you do not understand," Baraka protested. "He is young, he is beautiful, he is rich. He will take some other woman for his wife, if I leave him. You see, he must die, there is no other way. If he will not marry me, it is his portion. Why do you talk? Have I not come across the world from the Altai, by Samarkand and Tiflis, as far as England, to find him and marry him? Is it nothing that I have done, a Tartar girl alone, with no friend but a bag of precious stones that any strong thief might have taken from me? Is the danger nothing? The travel nothing? Is it nothing that I have gone about like a shameless one, with my face uncovered, dressed in a man's clothes? That I have cut my hair, my beautiful black hair, is that so nothing, too? That I have been in an English prison? That I have been called a thief? I have suffered all these things to find him, and if I come to him at last, and he will not be my husband, shall he live and take another woman? You are a great man, it is true. But you do not understand. You are only a Frank, after all! That little maid you have brought for me would understand me better, though she has been taught for six years by Christians. She is a good girl. She says that in all that time she has never once forgotten to say the Father three times a day, and to say 'el hamdu illah' to herself after she has prayed. She would understand. I know she would. But you, never!"

The exquisite little aquiline features were a look of unutterable contempt.

"If I were you," said Logothetis, smiling, "I would not tell her what you are going to do."

"You see!" cried Baraka, almost angrily. "You do not understand. A servant! Shall I tell my heart to my handmaid, and my secret thoughts to a hired man? I tell you, because you are a friend, though you have no understanding of us. My father feeds many monks, and has many bondsman and bondwomen, whom he beats when it pleases him, and can put to death if he likes. He also knows the rules of rubies, as his father did before him, and when he desires gold he takes one to Tashkent, or even to Samarkand, a long journey, and sells it to the Russians. He is a great man. If he would bring a camel bag full of precious stones to Europe he could be one of the greatest men in the world. And you think that my father's daughter would open her heart to one of her servants? I said well that you do not understand!"

Logothetis looked quietly at the slim young thing in a ready-made blue serge frock, who said such things as a lady Clara. Very de Vora would scarcely dare to say above her breath in these democratic days; and he watched the noble little features, and the small white hands, that had come down to her through generations of chieftains, since the days when the primeval shepherds of the world counted the stars in the plains of Kaf.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott For the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) September 20th, 1909.

(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) Temperance Lesson, 1 Cor. x:23-33.

Golden Text—Let every one of us please his neighbor for his good to edification. Rom. x:2.

Verses 23—If a man could lawfully drink intoxicating liquor, in moderation, would it be a good thing to do, seeing so many thousands are being ruined yearly, by drinking, all of whom commenced to drink in moderation? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Is a man honest, either in money or morals, who always goes as far as the law will allow him and no further? If the general influence of anything we do, which may be lawful in itself, is injurious to ourselves or others, what is our duty?

What is the general influence of the drink traffic?

Verses 24—Why is not all our duty to our neighbor fulfilled when he has succeeded in doing him no harm?

Does Paul mean that we are to devote more time and thought to adding to our neighbor's wealth, than we do to our own, and if not, what does he mean?

To how much of our respect is a man entitled, who cares nothing for the success of others, but is devoted wholly to his own?

Verses 25—In these days meat was offered to idols and afterward sold in the market for food, and some conscientious people objected to eating it for that reason. What did Paul advise in the circumstances, and why did he advise it?

Should we always pay the price demanded without question, or should we endeavor to buy for the lowest possible price?

Verses 26—If the earth is the Lord's why should not all real estate be public property?

How much of our property should we consider we own in our own right?

Verses 27—Is it right for a Christian to be intimate with worldly people, to attend their parties and to conform to their usages, when such usages are not actually sinful?

If wine is used at any party which a Christian attends, would it be right or wrong for him to drink it, and why?

Is it a Christian's right to do as he is "disposed" in any matter, or has God not a specific plan for him for all matters great and small?

Verses 28-30—Was the meat in itself any less good for having been offered to an idol?

Why does Paul here advise not to eat meat that had been offered to an idol, if any person calls attention to it who thought it wrong to do so?

Is it necessarily hypocritical to do a thing behind a person's back, that you would not do before his face?

If no person ever got drunk, and if drinking was doing no harm, would it be right or wise for us to drink intoxicating liquor as a beverage?

Verses 31—Are all our actions taken by God as worship if they are done to his glory?

How is it possible for a Christian to do literally, everything he does, to the glory of God?

Verses 32-33—What should be our supreme desire in all our dealing with our fellow men?

A Wife's Reply.

A certain retired capitalist of Birmingham is in the habit of referring to the wife of his youth in the presence of his second wife. One day recently he indulged in this form of reminiscence more than usual and his wife ventured a mild protest. "Pshaw!" he said, "there is no use of my being angry." "It isn't that," she replied. "I'm sorry I missed you at your best."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

American Consul in Siberia.

Omsk, Siberia, now has an American consulate, with Adolph P. Helmke, in charge. Heretofore there has been no American consular representation in the extensive Russian region between Moscow and Vladivostok, over 5,000 miles apart. In this territory are many large cities, and the country is showing rapid agricultural development. Last fall 5,000 Russian immigrants passed through Omsk each 24 hours.

Twin Tunnels Opened.

The twin tunnels extending beneath the Hudson river from the Pennsylvania Terminal station in Jersey City to the Hudson Terminal building in Manhattan, at Cortlandt street, were recently opened for operation, says Scientific American. Trains run from a five-track station, 80 feet below the Pennsylvania Terminal, to a five-track loop station beneath the Terminal building. As soon as sufficient cars can be obtained from the builders, the twin tunnel, running parallel with the Hudson shore line on the Jersey side, and extending from the Pennsylvania to the Lackawanna terminals, will be also placed in operation.
